THE GLOBAL MIGRATION CRISIS: CHALLENGES AND RESPONSES

3.5
DAYS

Course Director

Ms Carlotta Ferrero

Ms Ferrero has over fifteen years of professional experience in governance, security sector reform, rule of law and human rights. Her thematic expertise covers justice reform in post-conflict environments with emphasis on legislative, judicial and correctional reform.

GCSP

The Geneva Centre for Security Policy is an international foundation with 48 member states from across the globe that provides forward-thinking and innovative solutions for leaders and policymakers concerned with international affairs and security in today's complex, globalised world.

Developing Effective, Sustainable Responses

This course provides an overview of the global migration crisis, its trends and drivers. The course will highlight the different push/pull factors, new challenges and opportunities connected to migration. Participants will learn how to provide a comprehensive response.

➔ Key benefits for you

The course will enable you to:

- Deepen your knowledge and understanding of global migration crises;
- Enhance your capacity to identify different needs and sectors of assistance;
- Expand your understanding of the new factors impacting large-scale migration.

Participant profile

The course is open to representatives from governments (ministries and local municipalities), civil society organisations, international organisations and members of the private sector.

Why you should attend

Now more than ever migration levels are impacted by humanitarian crises, in turn triggered by natural and human made events. Policymakers, civil society and local communities have to improve their capacity to anticipate and respond to high levels of migration, a situation which is increasingly global and exceptionally complex. Different types of crises lead to different levels of migrant vulnerability. Policymakers and practitioners need to be equipped to appropriately address and respond to such challenges.

Course focus

- Crisis analysis: causes, prevention and management
- The global migration crisis: trends, drivers and sectors of interventions
- Identifying different protection and assistance needs
- Comprehensive approach: developing comprehensive migration policies and innovative interventions
- Developing a new set of skills to respond effectively to the new complex and fast-changing migration crisis
- Large-scale migration and security implications

Course design

The course provides a holistic and interactive approach that combines theoretical and practical aspects of managing migration. Sessions are led by experienced practitioners and academics. Conceptual inputs are combined with case studies, in order to allow participants to apply theory to practice.

Faculty profiles

The core teaching staff includes international faculty composed of academics and practitioners with broad experience in international affairs, migration policy, humanitarian assistance and protection, as well as high-level international guest speakers from civil society, government, academic and international organisations.

Alumni community

Upon completion of the course, you will become part of the expanding GCSP alumni network of over 4500 professionals and enjoy continued access to our events. Security policy conferences enable current and past participants to meet, debate policy issues and share ideas and experiences in an informal setting.

In the heart of "International Geneva"

Hosting over 35 international organisations, more than 250 non-governmental organisations, 252 diplomatic missions, representations and delegations, Geneva represents one of the world's richest networks in international affairs.
